Over the years there has been considerable interest in the Holocaust and today we have a large and rich body of literature; not only stories by survivors but also literature from children of survivors, fiction writers, playwrights and scholars. Holocaust literature occupies a prominent place in contemporary literature and its literature continues to grow. There are also large amounts of resources on the Holocaust available from various institutions such as Holocaust resource centers and via the Internet.

Join us for a presentation on Holocaust resources and services. The seminar will introduce you to some of the rich resources on the Holocaust including picture books, graphic novels, works by children of survivors, literature for children and young adults, overlooked reference tools for researching the Holocaust, archival material and services of the Harriet & Kenneth Kupferberg Holocaust Resource Center and Archives, Queensborough Community College, and more.

Presenters and Topics include:

Dr. Esor Ben-Sorek, Coordinator of Hebrew Language & Literature, Foreign Languages Dept., Queensborough Community College: "A Light in the Nazi Darkness"

Dr. Arthur Flug, Executive Director, The Harriet & Kenneth Kupferberg Holocaust Resource Center, Queensborough Community College: "Archival Material and Services of the Harriet & Kenneth Kupferberg Holocaust Resource Center and Archives"
